

The impro live! - Akademie für Angewandte Improvisation
proudly presents from May 31st until June 3rd 2012:

The Applied Improvisation Network Roadshow on Leadership in Berlin/Germany

We live in a time of crisis and historic opportunity for society, business and politics. There is a fundamental need for new approaches to leadership in organizations. We need more effective ways of working and playing together. Applied Improvisation offers exciting new prospects for leaders who want to make a significant difference.

More than 2000 practitioners have joined the Applied Improvisation Network (AIN) since its founding in 2002. The members are business professionals and academics who use improv tools, experience and theory for human development and training in organizations and communities worldwide. The AIN Roadshow is touring in 2012 through major European cities, including London, Amsterdam and Geneva, and will be in Berlin from May 31st until June 3rd.

Are you a Managing Director? A program manager at a business school? An HR Manager? A curious consultant, trainer or coach?

Join us for this introduction of Applied Improvisation to you and your organization!

The Roadshow focuses on Leadership and Applied Improvisation. We'll experience how improvisation can teach us the relevant behaviours and mindsets for Adaptive Leadership. We'll explore how Improvisation fits as a tool to train open leadership in times of Web and Enterprise 2.0. And we'll see how Improvisation offers new techniques of resilient leadership for coping with the unpredictability of today's markets. Are you interested? We hope your answer is...
